Courteous Service

Carter's helps busy families and individuals downsize their homes and simplify their lives.

- Do you have too much stuff?
- Are you planning to move after many years in your home?
- Are your relatives out of state or too busy to help?
- Would you like to offset your moving costs with income from the sale of your unwanted items?

We work one-on-one with seniors, families and individuals sorting through years of household accumulation. Carter's helps you determine what should be kept, donated, discarded, recycled and sold – usually prior to moving or selling a home.

Our process eliminates clutter and often generates revenue to offset moving costs, but most importantly reduces stress during these hectic times. Most Realtors will tell you that a clutter-free home sells quicker and for a higher asking price.

We offer a free consultation and are flexible with our services and scheduling. Our focus is on "sorting" and we can help you sell or assist with the sale of your unwanted antiques, collectibles and better household items. Packing, unpacking and shredding services also available. www.cartershd.com.

Being a Realtor I know that houses with less clutter sell quicker and at a higher price. Carter's assisted me after the passing of my mother by sorting through her belongings and selling off unwanted items from the estate. This made the whole process of putting her house on the market much easier and less stressful. - RUTH ANN R. Holland, PA

My Story and Why We Started Carters

Carter's owner Court Ebeling began formalizing his business after the passing of his father. "I had been helping individuals and families downsize for years using my knowledge gained in over 25 years in the antiques, collectibles and gift fields. Once I realized the "simple" task of sorting through my father's belongings was more of an emotional experience than I was prepared to handle, I understood why people need my assistance making decisions on what to keep, donate, discard, recycle and sell."
