

MEDIA RELEASE

September 6, 2013

For Immediate Release

Contact:

Jamie Broderick

215-534-7195

Jamie@NetworkNowConnections.com

Network Now Hosted Community-wide Donation Drive for Impact Thrift Stores

BUCKINGHAM, PA. Network Now®, a local women's business network, hosted a community-wide donation drive for Impact Thrift Stores on Wednesday morning September 4th. Tax-deductible donations of furniture, electronics, clothing, shoes, books and household items came pouring in from dozens of Bucks County residents. Jamie Broderick, the founder and owner of Network Now®, began hosting this donation drive at her home several years ago as a part of her annual Yellow Bus Party, a champagne breakfast for moms to celebrate the start of school.

Impact Thrift Stores provides low cost merchandise to those in need and distributes the net proceeds of the store sales to thirteen local charities. They also provide furnishings to help house homeless families. "With the continued downturn in the economy, we are constantly in need of donations to keep our four stores stocked to meet the public demand," said Jo Greenawalt, Director of Business Development for Impact Thrift Stores. For more information on Impact Thrift, please visit their website at www.ImpactThrift.org.

For more information about Network Now®, please visit www.NetworkNowConnections.com

Photos: Network Now® Founder Jamie Broderick on Impact Thrift Stores' truck. Impact Thrift Stores Director of Business Development Jo Greenawalt with Network Now® Founder Jamie Broderick.*